
Biography of EDWARD J. DUMAS JR.

Written by AMA staff

Transcribed by JS (05/08)

The following was published in the January 1988 issue of Model Aviation magazine. Edward was a 1987 Sig Memorial Scholarship winner.

Edward J. Dumas, Jr., of Knoxville, Tennessee, has been planning for a university education since his early years and aims at a career in the aerospace industry.

Living in a rural area where part-time employment was hard to find, Ed decided to develop a computer program that would have commercial value and hopes to finance part of his education through that product.

In addition, he will enter the college work-study program and get practical business experience while he pursues his studies.